

Create a company and build up its capital

This account is used to deposit capital when setting up a company or when increasing the capital of a company.

The essentials

The deposit account is used to deposit capital when setting up a new company or when increasing the capital of a company, such as a public limited company, a limited partnership or a limited liability company.

A confirmation is sent directly to your notary as soon as the account has been opened and the capital deposited. After the company has been created or the capital increased, the remaining capital can then be transferred to your BCGE Entreprises¹ account.

How it works

The capital is deposited in a deposit account with Banque Cantonale de Genève. The authentic deed and the articles of association can be signed with a notary once the Bank's confirmation has been sent to him. The notary is responsible for registering the company in the Commercial Register (RC).

Conditions required for the deposit account

²Name, legal form, address, identity document of the applicant of the application, amount to be deposited, distribution of the amounts paid, name of the depositors (persons who will deposit the money into the deposit account), notary in charge of the constitution, date of signature, minutes of the general meeting (capital increase).
